4. School Overview

North East Public School is a CBSE-affiliated institution located in a rural setting in Rowta, Bhalukmari, in the Udalguri district of Assam, India. The school serves students from Class I through Class XII, following the curriculum and academic standards prescribed by the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE). Rooted in its rural community, the school is committed to providing a well-rounded education that combines academics, sports, and co-curricular development.

5. Understanding the CBSE Curriculum

The Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) is one of India’s national school boards, overseeing curriculum and examinations for schools across the country and abroad. CBSE sets standardized academic benchmarks for Classes I through XII, ensuring consistency in content, rigor, and assessment nationwide.

In the senior secondary years (Classes XI–XII), students select an academic stream — such as Science or Arts — which shapes their subject combination and course of study. Assessment combines theory examinations with internal assessments and, for applicable subjects, practical examinations, providing a rounded measure of a student’s knowledge and applied skills.

Class X and Class XII culminate in national board examinations administered by CBSE, standardized across the country and serving as key qualifying milestones. Performance in these examinations, particularly the Class XII results, is the primary academic credential used for admission to universities in India and is increasingly recognized internationally as evidence of readiness for higher education.
